Welcome to my Golden Bubble Sort Review. So recently, I was playing one of these interactive ads. They are the which allows you to play the game from an ad. Anyway, this ad was for the game I'm going to review today and what it was about was me collecting several balls in a container. I need to collect 20 orange balls, and as a result of that, I was told I had won $100, and to get it removed, I needed to download the game. I was pretty suspicious at this point that this game showed me how just collecting a ball would earn me $5. It gave me this feeling of winning a lot giving me that amount I wouldn't want to get in the real game. The game has been for a while, but I know some of you will wonder if this sorting game is good or even legitimate. So make sure you stay on as I will pass on whether or not any of the winnings they portray in the ads are true and if you can get paid just by the gun sorting. Golden Bubble Sort Review Summary Owner: Happy Bubble Games What Are They?: Puzzle Game My Worth It Rating: 2/5 What is Golden Bubble Tr? Golden Bubble Sort has been out since the beginning of summer; however, I came across it while reviewing another game by developers called Golden Dot Connect. Compared to the other game I checked through them, this one was much more popular. They have well over a million installations on the App Store plus have an average rating of 4.1 stars. Now I don't know if Happy Bubble Games developers are still pushing ads as they were a few months ago, but they were showing people a series of ads of what I remember. The first one I talked about earlier was when you could play the game in the ad. As you played, you earned false money that would increase your total at the top. At the end, I was shown a congratulatory message that I had won $100. Here it is below: It doesn't mean anything, as it's just an announcement. This means that if you do what I did and then download Golden Bubble Sort, you don't get a hundred dollars in 30 seconds like you did in the interactive ad. Happy Bubble Games only do this to get a high conversion on the number of people who view their ad and then install the game. How does golden bubble sorting work? To install it, you'll need to type in the Golden Bubble Sort App Store. As far as I know, it is only available on Google Play. To begin with, you need to log in. It can be done by using your Facebook, Google, or simply by clicking the guest login button at the bottom. With all the other new users, you will also get a newcomer gift of $1, which is, of course, far from the claims of the ad. But that's to be expected. Now, before we talk about the game, let me touch the overall game setup and feel. Just looking at the menu and even the chests, there are similarities with other games, even those made by different developers. Games this one reminds me include: Happy Golden Hen Airplane Carrier Save The Tycoon This is because features such as guest friends, slots, and even the price of mega chest are a feature of every game. It almost feels like it's been duplicated, and because of that, it's not a good sign because these three games don't pay either. How to play Game? If we look at the game itself, just like in the ad, it is simple. You have a set of pots, all including balls of different color. The job you have is to sort them into colors. Here's a screenshot to give you a quick idea of what I mean: Once you click on play, the game will start. If you want to remove a bullet, you on the jar. This will raise the one at the top, from there you click on the pot you want to move it too. The first level is very easy, and will probably only take you a minute. But as you move through, they should take you longer. How to make money with Golden Bubble Tr? As a reward, you get $2 for completing the first level. You will then get more money to complete other levels, however, you don't get money every time, as sometimes it can be coins. You will also see an opportunity to open a lucky chest after a level. This forces you to watch a video. At first, money is easy to find; in fact, I earned $3 in the space of a few minutes just by completing two levels. In the future, this kind of money should not be common, however, because it will decrease at some point. Some people indicated that they only had cents per level once they went to the required amount. Referral Program Now, there is a referral program, that is, if you can call it a program. This is because it looks shady, and unlike legitimate ones, they say you can make thousands. If you click on the invite tab, you will be taken to an external window that tells you the details of the invitation program. A few minutes ago, I said how they had features copied from other games, and that's one. You see, this program says you can refer and earn up to $1500, but this isn't the first time I've seen it. However, while the Golden Bubble State, this is what you can do. It's hard to understand how you actually get it. I could make it clear that you can get $0.01 for every referral that joins through your link. If they play for consecutive days, you can get a few cents more. However, it does look like if you want to make thousands, you will need to refer thousands and I hope they play every day. You can understand the strategy here; Golden Bubble Sort, with there are neighboring games, want you to bring as many people and encourage them so that they play regularly. Essentially, it's advertising revenue and more users mean more ads running. How do they pay? I've seen some users who have left comments in the Golden Bubble Sort section review how one of the ads said they could cash in right away. If everyone could do it, then people would sign up, complete a few levels and take a few dollars. It's not a lot of money, but if hundreds of thousands did that, you'd have app developers in huge debt. Even with the money, these applications do anyway, it would not be possible. The reality is that you have a threshold with certain terms that need to be met for a payment to send. Now, whatever game I mentioned in this review, I can tell you that all were disappointing on the payments front. For Golden Bubble Sort, they claim to pay everyone once you've reached $110 or $190. They say how this will be published within a day. What you need to know about 1. Addictive game The game is enjoyable and comes with a concept to other games I've tried. Many games tend to be copied; I've seen it a lot with the scratch card, 2048, and Plinko typed games that are exaggerated. But in this case, the developers came out with a game that I haven't seen done yet, and what's good is that it's nice to play. 2. Spammy Notifications Apps give notifications to share something with users out there or to get people back playing games. But with this game, I found it quite spammed, and if you intend to play Golden Bubble Sort, you may want to turn them off. Notifications can be fine when they are not exaggerated and also when they are relevant. But some of the alerts I get included how there was a $1750 cash prize contest that ended in 2 minutes. However, when I clicked on it, I didn't see any signs of a contest. So it does look like with advertising they are willing to do anything to draw your attention and get you back on their game. 3. No sign of payments At first glance, it seems that there are two ways to cash in. You can reach the threshold or complete all 400 levels for the price of $110 mega. However, I have reason to believe that no one receives either. That's because I took the time to read the comments, and I found repeated cases where people weren't credited that they were entitled too. This feedback caught my attention as this person said how they completed all levels. Once they reached the milestone, they expected to receive the money as promised; however, it has not been awarded. It was just one person, but you'll see the same experiences and problems reported if you go through even more of these comments. It just feels like and especially for the so-called mega price that once you've completed the levels, they don't care, and it's about the next person and wasting their time too. Now, as I said, the game is fun to play, and I'd probably put some time into it, from the levels I've completed, I've enjoyed it. However, many users do not play for the game itself, but for the money. That's why so many users rush to complete all the levels because they think there's a big payout waiting for them. Golden Bubble Sort conclusion is a game where you sort the balls in each color, but the developers claim that you can earn money in the process. Everything I've seen playing this and other game just like this and reading the comments suggests that the latter is not possible. The announcement brings hundreds of people; You assume every day to play the game all to earn money. However, users are then with, and for those who manage to finish the game, there is no price as guaranteed at the beginning. Closing I already had an idea of what to expect while doing this golden bubble release review. I know you will be disappointed for many of you, especially if you have made progress in the game. But what I'm trying to do here on this site is to help people achieve more, and and apps like this that will waste your time, there are better opportunities out there for you. You.
